SOURCE

Survival Difficulty: Class 0

» ☐ Safe» ☐ Stable» ☐ One Passive Entity

Level 124, known as "The Purple Rooms", is the 125th level of the Backrooms.

Description

Level 124 resembles a large, Gothic mansion. The mansion itself and the characteristics of its rooms seem to vary in appearance for different people who enter the level. However, the mansion always has windows (which cannot be seen through), warmth (with a contrast including is custom toggle temperature of 80° F), and a "purple" theme, which gives the level its name.

An image of Level 124's dining room. As seen in the image, the "infinite food supply" is an illusion.

Halls sometimes appear in this level, covered with stained glass windows.

The halls always lead to dead ends, with text on the wall at the end. There have been 4 currently reported texts at the end of the hall, including "The Goddess is watching", "She will avenge herself", "Lost in glitches of time and space", and finally "The mistress will return".

Interestingly, all people who have visited this level only have memories of visiting two certain rooms, though they know they explored other areas (no photos have yet been taken of these "forgotten rooms", and it is believed to be impossible to do so). These two rooms are a living room and a large dining room, both with black and purple "themes". In addition, explorers often report these rooms feeling very comforting and familiar to them, although they do not know why. While in the dining room, people often report eating an endless supply of food with multiple people, often their family or childhood friends, but cameras show this to be an illusion.

As mentioned above, there are windows in the level that glow purple. These windows cannot be opened or destroyed in any way, including guns, dynamite, and crowbars. The windows always glow purple, no matter how lit up the room is. People have reported entering a glowing purple room, but this is very rare.

Anyone in Level 124 will feel completely safe and secure, and nostalgic for their childhood, and will feel no hunger or thirst while in this level.

It is impossible to communicate or interact with other people while in this level.

Entities

So far, there have been no dangerous entities reported in this level, with one harmless entity (see below). However, the amnesic properties of Level 124 mean it is impossible to know truly how many entities are present here. People often exit the level with significant injuries, with no knowledge of what happened, suggesting these injuries occurred in the "forgotten rooms".

The Grandmother

The Grandmother is the only known entity to inhabit this level. This entity resembles the grandmother of the explorer who interacted with her, and often appears wearing jewelry. She often appears in the dining room, sitting on the side opposite from where the explorer enters. When a person encounters her, she will attempt to comfort them. Once the explorer leaves the dining room, The Grandmother will never be seen again by that particular person, unless they make another visit to this level.

It is unknown if The Grandmother is an entity in her own right, or simply a manifestation of this level's strange, nostalgic properties. More research is needed.

> That's not all...

Crafted from a piece of time

Then covered in dirt and grime

Crafted from a piece of space

Then left as a desolate place

Ask for the origin

That I will give

But none of that matters

For she still lives

Before all of that, before the pain, before the glow

There was one thing, that you should know

Insanity

Open File: 3B

Level 124, known as "Purplish Insanity", consists of an endless void of light purple. A Shepard tone is played most of the time here, but very rarely distorted ballroom music will play. This level also has a mysterious property that causes all camera footage of this level to be extremely low quality, no matter the recording device. Oddly enough, all said recordings had no audio disturbances at all. While in this level, one will only be able to see themselves and items they are holding. It also sees that the purple void gets brighter and brighter when nearing a purple cube. The current implications of this are unknown, as there has only been one encounter with this anomaly.
